

UNVEILED |

Visiting Artist Charlie Kaplan

SEPTEMBER 26, 2013
ADMIN
BLOG, MAIN BLOG
CORCORAN COLLEGE, VISITING ARTISTS
NO COMMENTS

SHARE
TWITTER
FACEBOOK

Last week, Corcoran College students had the opportunity to spend an afternoon with visiting artist, Charlie Kaplan, a professional stone sculptor who splits his time between working in Los Angeles and Tuscany. The September 19th workshop was a part of the undergraduate Fine Arts sculpture studio and was an opportunity for students to hear Charlie discuss his work, participate in a demonstration, and gain insight into his artistic process.

Senior Brittany Moore was able to join and snap some pics, shown below. Thanks so much to Charlie for visiting us at the Corcoran and to Brittany for the photos!

Charlie gives students an opportunity to try their hand at stone carving, allowing them to use the tools and feel the movements.

TALK ON TWITTER

Tweets by @CorcoranGW

 Corcoran School @ GW @CorcoranGW
Come hear artist and photographer Gordon Stettinius speak on photobooks, Wed. at 1 PM, Hammer Auditorium! #corclife

Embed View on Twitter

 Griffin Gallery Opens at the Corcoran
NOVEMBER 17, 2015 - NO COMMENTS

 Sanjit Sethi Greet Alums with an Artist's Talk
NOVEMBER 17, 2015 - NO COMMENTS

 Corcoran School Marks Completion of Historic Inaugural Year
AUGUST 28, 2015 - NO COMMENTS

 Graduation. Pomp. Circumstance.
JUNE 1, 2015 - NO COMMENTS